That moment is coming again where everything kinda stops where colors are hidden by a blanket of white where I feel like a child again where nature becomes quiet in the mountains not much has changed it's where I feel the most freedom this is a "snow life"
my life
so lucky
Snow, my greatest teacher thank you Snow for covering everything in white making the world quiet and the love inside my heart grow thank you Snow for keeping me young inside I will never stop looking for your white coat let's go!

then, that moment arrived when you killed I never dreamed you could hurt me so much why? why Snow?
you brought so much pain

but after some time the love came back I know no stronger relationship
I forgive you and without asking any questions
I come back to you

I don't need much to be happy
I realized this when everything was lost I stayed home, with my closest friends where we enjoyed the simple things in life we discovered that while living at such a hectic pace we were often missing out on the real beauty in life I still have so much to see but behind my house there is often snow

Ciuhui, Too cool!!
let's all go skiing behind the house!

what kind of winter was it..?

is it already over?
it was very busy and tiresome but in the end it ended too quickly a year has passed since last spring and I feel a bit grown up the world changed and sometimes I feel like crying my love for skiing has lessened I don't understand what happened there but in the end I was wrong because not much has changed in the mountains where we can be where we don't need a teacher thank you for this beautiful gift where I definitely don't need an opinion on how I should live my life now an other winter has passed and what did I get from it? a whole life looking for snow and I never got bored one could ask the meaning of always wanting to go to the mountains

looking for what? looking for our selfs
In the mountains I got to know myself I learned to look after myself and learned to breathe properly in the snow I have found peace and the forest calms me down a calm feeling that I carry with me in my everyday life thanks to the mountains I grew up stronger
but remained like a kid we always think we need material things but we have everything necessary if we listen to nature life is beautiful in the simplicity of being and so one last Thank You from the heart knowing that if I leave this world there will be no regrets because I will always love LIFE
